Principles

We recognise and respect the confidentiality of personal data and information shared with us, the privacy of those who provide it, the need to use, process and store personal data in secure ways, on a lawful basis, complying with GDPR (The General Data Protection Regulation) and to follow guidance provided by the ICO (Information Commissioner's Office).

This policy statement covers data protection, information security, confidentiality and privacy.

What type of information we have

We collect and hold the following types of personal information, including personal identifiers, contacts and characteristics including:

- email addresses
- employee data

- marketing interests (events, volunteering, campaigns)

If you use your credit or debit card to donate or make payment to us, we will use a specialist payment processor. You have the right and are able to remove your consent at any time.
